City of Rio de Janeiro Now in Hands of Insurgent Group

REBELS MAKE BIG GAIN

Revolt of Governor Vargas is Apparently Complete Success

I. N. S. Staff Correspondent.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 24.—The city of Rio de Janeiro was in the hands of insurgents at 11 o'clock this morning, and the resignation of President Washington Luis was expected to be tendered momentarily.

With the revolt staged by Governor Getulio Vargas of the State of Rio Grande do Sul and his followers apparently completely successful, the resignation of the President was awaited before the proclamation of a new government by the insurgents.

Rio de Janeiro was taken by the rebels following a series of riots by mobs who attacked the offices of newspapers with Federal sympathies here. The demonstrations continued throughout the morning, and at the hour this dispatch was filed the city had been virtually taken over by the revolutionists.

Tremendous damage was done by the rioters throughout the city. Outbreak of rebellion in the capital came suddenly and without warning, following several days of military inactivity. A few hours after the torch of insurrection had been set aflame in the capital, it became obvious the insurrectionists held the upper hand and no course seemed open but the resignation of the incumbent government.

Success of the revolutionaries climaxed an insurrection launched on October 3 throughout the country.

The States of Rio Grande do Sul, Parana, Para, Maranhao, Piahy, Ceara, Rio Grande do Norte and Parahyba went over to the rebels almost immediately. Pernambuco capitulated a few days afterward, and a few days ago the huge state of Matto Grosso was taken over by the rebels.

Plan to Hold Hallowe'en Parade in Morrisville

Hallowe'en costume parade will be held in Morrisville under the direction of the Student Council organization of Morrisville High School on October 31st. The parade will organize about 7.15 p. m. and disband about nine o'clock.

The parade will be divided into five divisions: First, local adults and civic organizations; second, senior high school; third, junior high school; fourth, elementary grades; fifth, floats of all divisions.

Prizes for the various winners will be donated by local merchants and civic organizations. A committee under the direction of Mildred Bond, senior class delegate to the Student Council, is now listing the qualifications and awards. A committee to select judges has been appointed by Warren Malick, president of the Student Council, and includes: Charles Seltzer, chairman; Waldo Torluemeke, Neal Nolan, Fred Wright and Paul Greenlee. Malick has also appointed John Edwards and Charles Lucas as marshals for two of the sections of the parade.

The parade will form at Clymer and Harper avenues, adjacent to the Robert Morris High School building. The procession will follow Harper avenue to Palmer, east on Palmer to Stockham, north on Stockham to Franklin, east on Franklin to Pennsylvania, and then south on Pennsylvania to Union. Turning east on Union street, the parade will go south on Delmorr avenue to Bridge street, west on Bridge to Washington, south on Washington to Delaware to Pennsylvania, thence south on Pennsylvania to the main intersection at Bridge street, where the procession will move to Harper avenue and to the Robert Morris School to disband.

The parade will follow a less lengthy route than last year, but an effort has been made to keep near the center of the borough while leaving the main traffic arteries unblocked.

PHILADELPHIA PROFESSIONAL POLITICIANS OUT TO GRAB THE STATE'S FUNDS FOR OWN USE, SAYS SENATOR GRUNDY, ADDRESSING BUSINESS MEN

Warns Voters of State of the Seriousness of the Situation
Which Confronts Them — Republican Defeat in Keystone State Now May Mean Democratic President in 1932 — Higher Taxes Likely to Be Imposed if Hall and His Gang Capture Control.

HARRISBURG, Oct. 24.—At a meeting of Republican business men from all sections of Pennsylvania and at which practically every county in the State was represented, a bitter attack was made upon the Philadelphia organization yesterday by United States Senator Joseph R. Grundy.

The meeting was held in the Pennsylvania Hotel and the Republican leaders summoned here by General Edward Martin, Republican State Chairman, were told by Mr. Grundy that the issue in the present election is whether the people of Pennsylvania or the "professional politicians of Philadelphia" shall control the Commonwealth.

Addressing the gathering Senator Grundy spoke as follows:

The Philadelphia Organization, striving to rule this State though it has had to step out of the Republican Party in its effort to do so, has made itself and its purposes the paramount issue in this campaign. The question which surpasses all others in the approaching election, therefore, is whether the leaders of that Organization, now out to destroy the Republican Party in this State, shall, through a Democratic candidate for Governor whom they say is thoroughly satisfactory to them, get control of the government of this Commonwealth and thus be enabled to exploit the people of the entire State as they have exploited the people of Philadelphia.

The situation as it now exists, resolves itself into the question of whether the Republican voters of Pennsylvania, or the powers which pull the strings of the Philadelphia Organization, shall select the candidates of the Republican Party and say who shall be the Governor of this Commonwealth. And I would remind you that as that question is settled, so is the fate of the Republican Party in the Presidential election two years hence also likely to be settled. Only twice since the Civil War has Pennsylvania gone Democratic in a gubernatorial election, and upon each of those occasions the nation went Democratic in the following Presidential election.

For thirty-five consecutive years this Commonwealth has been under Republican administration. During this more than third of a century our people have prospered to a larger extent than the people of the country at large have prospered; our social and industrial development alike have been greater than in our whole previous history; and our State Government has grown from a relatively small enterprise employing only 169 persons in all and operated within a very restricted sphere at an expenditure of 12 1/4 millions of dollars annually.

RADIO MANUFACTURER ADDRESSES ROTARIANS

Tells of Advancement Made in Radios and Explains
Growth of Industry

AN INTERESTING TALK

The Bristol Rotary Club was honored yesterday by the presence of Mr. A. Atwater Kent, Jr., and Edward Meany, district manager of the Atwater Kent Company; Frank C. Bishop, district representative, and R. E. Hunting, sales manager, Louis Buehn Co., all of Philadelphia.

The group came to Bristol as the guest of Frank Pfeiffer and Mr. Hunting addressed the luncheon-meeting of the Rotarians which was held in the Elks Home.

The speaker told an interesting story of the romantic rise of an industry which today is the marvel of the world.

It was described in detail how Mr. Kent, born of New England parents, first ventured forth as a manufacturer of radios, and how today he is the owner of a gigantic business, employing thousands of men and manufacturing a product which is distributed throughout the world.

The speaker said that Mr. Kent has revolutionized the radio industry and he continued by telling the advances and strides which the Kent firm has made.

usually, to a tremendous institution employing more than 26,000 men and women, and rendering the people almost every conceivable kind of service, for which our expenditures now exceed 200 millions of dollars per year.

This is the institution which Charlie Hall, Sam Salus, Tom Cunningham, and their associates are attempting to grab and exploit. That they are willing to destroy the Republican Party in Pennsylvania in their efforts to do so, should be notice to the citizens of the value of the prize for which the Philadelphia Organization is fighting, with utter desperation and with every resource it can command.

S. P. C. A. SHOWS GROWTH IN BUCKS COUNTY

Over Fifty New Members Are Added to The Roll at Recent Fair

NAME NEW OFFICER

DOYLESTOWN, Oct. 24.—Evidence of growing interest in the work of the Bucks County S. P. C. A. was presented at the meeting of the organization here, attended by residents of different parts of the county.

Miss Agnes Briggs, Newtown, educational secretary; Mrs. H. K. Mellen, Holicong; Mrs. Laura Livezey and Mrs. Elizabeth Guston, Ivyland, gave reports of the great interest shown at the Doylestown Fair by children and adults in the work of the society. Ten thousand pieces of literature were distributed at the fair booth. One of the surprising discoveries was that boys were much more keenly interested than girls or adults. One young boy, it was related, removed his shoe, took a quarter from his heel and handed it to the officer saying that he wanted to belong to the junior branch. Another boy proudly announced at the booth that he was president of a Band of Mercy in his school. There were many stories of this kind, and many expressions indicating that men and women of the county appreciate the need for the society's work.

Thirty-six adults and 13 juniors joined the organization, and there were many donations of money.

One member, Mrs. Joseph R. Swartlander, Doylestown, reported that in a drive for funds to make the work possible she had been given $116. Added to this $4 was contributed at the meeting.

Because a great deal more money is needed several methods of raising it were discussed. One was decided upon, a rummage sale to be held in Bristol in the near future with Mrs. H. K. Mellen as president. Bristol it was reported, has several interested members of the society.

An interesting talk at this meeting was given by I. J. Vanartsdalen, chairman of the executive committee, and a prominent lawyer. Mr. Vanartsdalen, by request, discussed the details of prosecutions which are sometimes necessary, although the society attempts to accomplish its purposes as much as possible without resort to the law, except in aggravated instances.

Field Secretary H. K. Mellen, who also has charge of the Animal Refuge at Holicong, gave a detailed report of hundreds of calls made, hundreds of dogs cared for at the refuge, steps taken to prevent cruelty to all sorts of animals, and the prosecutions that were made. His efforts, he said, were greatly handicapped in a few instances by the refusal of persons to testify after they had reported instances of cruelty. However, he said, he had found that nearly all of those about whom complaints had been made were not only willing to do what they could to cooperate with the society, but that several had also paid up as members.

Mr. Mellen said that the expenses of the Animal Refuge at Holicong had been $774.50 and the receipts $561.50, making the actual cost beyond receipts $220.99, or about $30 per month.

Mrs. Elizabeth M. Gustin, of Ivyland, who has been an active worker in the society, was appointed assistant educational secretary. It is planned as soon as possible to seek to organize more Bands of Mercy in the public schools, and generally to extend the educational work.

Agent Theodore Miller gave a report of several cases of cruelty he had investigated.

An interesting feature of the evening was the exhibiting of what is known as a "suet stick", brought by Mrs. Gustin. The device is intended to be used in feeding birds suet and there was evidence that there would be a great demand for them.

Announcement was made that County Superintendent of Schools J. H. Hoffman has arranged to have a speaker on humane education at the county teachers' institute.

Card Party Well Attended; Given for Church's Benefit

The annual card party held last evening in St. Mark's School Auditorium, in connection with the Harvest Home, and sponsored by the seniors of the school, under the leadership of the Misses Laura Pope and Bessie Rafferty, for the benefit of the school fund, was decidedly popular and successful.

Twenty-six tables of players were grouped about the spacious hall, which was attractively decked in the colors of orange, and black, redolent of the Hallowe'en season. Ten tables of "500" enthusiasts and sixteen tables of the followers of pinocle matched their prowess in their favorite games during two hours and a half of pleasure.

Should Perkasee borough succeed in raising the sum of $20,000 within the next few weeks, the probabilities are that it will have a new industry in the form of a silk hosiery plant which promises to give employment to at least 75 local people.

At a meeting of the Perkasee Chamber of Commerce last evening, the industrial committee announced that a silk hosiery firm in Philadelphia is desirous of locating here, but has not been able to find any suitable buildings. There are at least four vacant buildings which originally had been erected as cigar factories, but the firm says these are not substantial enough for the large knitting machines which are operated by the firm.

INSTALLED AS PASTOR OF PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Rev. S. Brooks Knowlton Is Formally Inducted at Service
Here Last Evening

MANY ATTEND MEETING

The Rev. S. Brooks Knowlton was installed as pastor of the Bristol Presbyterian Church last evening, the service being attended by a large number of the congregation, and participated in by local and visiting members of the clergy.

Just prior to the statements to the new pastor and questions to the pastor and congregation, the Rev. Andrew Mutch, D. D., of Bryn Mawr, father of the new mistress of the manse, Mrs. Knowlton, delivered the sermon of the evening.

Speaking of the manner in which the body of man is enlarged, the speech, sight and powers of travel being magnified by the telephone and radio, the microscope and telescope, the airplane and train, etc., the Rev. Mutch stated that "What science has done in the material realm, the Gospel can do in the spiritual realm."

Referring to his topic, "Growth in Grace," the reverend gentleman, in Scriptural words said this can be accomplished "Through knowledge and love of our Saviour, Jesus Christ." His entire sermon was a challenge to earnest endeavor.

The Rev. Knowlton's favorite hymn, "Spirit of God Descend Upon My Heart" was sung by the congregation; and the choir favored with an anthem.

Rev. Jesse P. Martin, moderator, presided over the installation session, giving the statements and questions to the pastor, and the questions to the congregation.

"Preach the Word" was among the charges delivered to the new pastor by the Rev. William M. Yeomans, of Philadelphia, who for the past several months has been in charge of the local Presbyterian congregation. "There are many substitutes offered for the Word today, but there are no substitutes," remarked Rev. Yeomans. "The Word is sorely needed, and it's God's provision for today. It is our business to so speak the Word that the people can't speak reproachfully of it."

A second "charge" was "Till I come give attention to reading," and "Study to show thyself approved unto God." Continuing Rev. Yeomans gave "Feed the flock of God over which God hath made you overseer."

Rev. E. G. Rawson, D. D., of Ardmore, made the charge to the people, impressing upon them in a most significant way the vows taken by them last evening. The obligations and opportunity for service of the congregation were held before the group in a most impressive manner.

The installation prayer was made by the Rev. W. S. Voorhies, D. D., pastor of the Eddington Presbyterian Church; a second invocation being made by the Rev. Andrew G. Solla, pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Our Saviour, here. The Rev. Knowlton pronounced the benediction.

There were also in attendance at the service pastors of a number of the Bristol churches.

These budget estimates are studied carefully by the Budget Secretary to determine that the divisions are equitable. That is, that the divisions by years and by months are fair and that the allowance under any item of the classification is not disproportionately large or small.

For budget purposes, all state expenditures are budgeted and distributed according to the following classification:

This classification is purely objective. It does not pretend to distribute expenditures according to any system of costs. For example a building might be built by state employees whose salaries or wages apply to Codes "A-1," "A-2," or "B." The building materials would apply to Code "H" and Code "P-4." If the same building were built by an outside contractor, its cost to the State would apply to Code "S." The classification does, however, provide a simple breakdown of the State expenditures and thereby closer budget control.

When the Budget Secretary is satisfied with the various budget estimates, he forwards them to the Governor with his recommendations.

Upon the approval by the Governor of any budget estimate it becomes a (Continued on Page 3)

CRASH AT EDDINGTON

Three Philadelphia men, employees at the Keystone Aircraft Corporation plant, here, were injured this morning when a collision occurred between the sedan in which they were riding and a truck at Eddington early this morning.

The men and their injuries: Richard Townsend, 2727 North 11th street, Philadelphia, abrasions of the left ear, and left shoulder.

Charles Gallagher, owner and operator of the sedan in which the trio was riding, Philadelphia, is suffering from a deep wound to the scalp, lacerations to the scalp; and it has not been determined as yet just what the full extent of injuries to his shoulder are.

John Walters, 1846 North 13th street, deep incised wounds upon his hands, abrasions of the right knee, slight injury to right shoulder.

According to Gallagher he and his two companions were enroute to their employment, here, and when they reached a point on the highway near the St. Francis Industrial School, a truck suddenly cut across the roadway, entering Apple Lane. The driver of the truck, John J. Gavin, of the school, was unhurt in the collision, although the machines were considerably damaged.

Gavin, driver of the truck, stated that he did not see any vehicle approaching when he started to turn into the driveway.

Walters and Townsend have been discharged from the Harriman Hospital where they were taken by passersby to have their injuries dressed, but Gallagher is remaining at the institution.

RED CROSS WORKERS HEAR OF URGENCY FOR THE ROLL CALL

Seventy-Five Women From
All Sections of Bucks County at Meeting

HELD IN LANGHORNE

Must Increase Income or Cut
Down Service Now Being Rendered

By Staff Correspondent

LANGHORNE, Oct. 24.—Seventy-five women, roll call workers from the Bucks County Branches of the American Red Cross, attended a meeting at the Memorial House, here, yesterday afternoon, receiving enthusiasm for what it is hoped will be the biggest and best roll call in the history of the organization.

Miss Anna N. Lukens, who for a number of years has been in charge of the roll call work of the Red Cross, and a most enthusiastic and active worker, introduced Charles W. Crist, manager of the membership department and general secretary of the "southern branch of this humane organization. Mr. Crist presided over the meeting, of the day.

Welcoming the workers to the session, Mr. Crist remarked that "You roll call workers are vital factors in the Red Cross work. I wish there was something that would compel you to come together more frequently. The group was informed that there are 15,000 roll call volunteers in the five counties adjacent to Philadelphia. "The American Red Cross functions depend upon the success of the roll call. You present the facts to the people, and because of that they join, and the Red Cross is able to function."

The second speaker, Henry Baker, a former national director of disaster relief work for the organization, was introduced by Mr. Crist.

"This," said Mr. Baker, "is an especially important roll call, owing to the condition of the finances of the Red Cross this year. We either must cut down our service, or increase our income."

Turning his thoughts to the imminent drought in the mid-west the speaker told that "if this drought develops as many think it will, it will be the greatest and most complicated disaster imaginable." He then referred to the conservative policy of the Red Cross, telling that no drought relief will be given until the organization is convinced that the local people have exhausted all resources.

It was brought to mind that disaster relief is only one part of the work of the Red Cross, but a most important one. There have been in the past five years approximately 100 disasters annually, the group was informed. Mr. Baker told of how the Red Cross tries to protect its constituents against unnecessary or too large appeals for funds, and gave an idea of the manner in which investigations are made.

Food, clothing, shelter and medical aid are the necessities, and the only immediate ones, of those suffering in time of the greater calamities that befall sections of the country and world, and the one who is so familiar with the phases of relief work. Work of rehabilitation was dwelt upon, and the manner of appropriating funds or purchase of clothing and furniture.

"We always protect the donor against improper expenditure of funds," Mr. Baker said.

Some idea of the magnitude of the work was gained by the 75 women present, when it was told that in Florida during the large hurricane there were more than 5,000 houses repaired and rebuilt. Work in the Mississippi valley at the time of the great flood was gone over, as well as the relief measures carried out in other disasters.

Mr. Baker stated that he liked to think of the Red Cross in a manner similar to the scarlet thread that runs through all rope used by the British Navy. "I like to think of thoughtfulness and consideration for others that the American Red Cross workers and members have for all mankind, as a magnetic, uniting, divine thread of service for others."

Mr. Crist informed the group that more workers is the first problem; and he stated that each worker should not have more to do than can be done well. He advised smaller

DICTATORS

Within this decade Germany was a militaristic monarchy ruled over by a kaiser with all the power of a dictator, in spite of the existence of a parliament peculiarly German in its character. Even up to the kaiser's abdication the great majority of German citizens were not only content with their established form of government, but believed it to be the best government yet evolved by man. During the same period Italy, under a constitutional monarchy, was enjoying virtual self-government.

The years since the armistice have just reversed the situation as regards these two European powers. Germany has given herself a representative government, while the Italians have submitted to despotic rule by the dictator Mussolini.

A current cartoon in a German newspaper picturing Mussolini, crowned and robed, as Caesar and drawn in a Roman chariot by his "black shirts" and bearing underneath the legend, "Only when all my opponents are in prison shall we have an Italy that is really free," is strangely reminiscent of the wartime comment by the Italian press on kaiser-rule in Germany.

Today the Germans can not understand how the Italians can tolerate conditions which 10 years ago were acceptable to the Germans and intolerable to the Italians.

IF ADVERTISING STOPPED

"What would be the reaction upon the cost of living if advertising ceased and its beneficial force were stopped?" This question provides much food for rumination.

It is an interesting conjecture. Advertising largely takes the place of personal selling effort, which is very much more expensive.

A California editor cogitating on the possibility of a cessation of advertising says:

"It would mean that our railroad trains would be thronged with salesmen whose homeward bound mail would carry fewer orders, all of smaller volume than now.

"Distribution upon the present scale would be impossible. Manufacturing would fall off, with a consequent decrease in labor demand. Jobbers would find their business proportionally limited. Retailers would make fewer and slower turn-overs."

State Governmental Budget System

budget and a mandatory guide for expenditures. This may best be described by the following quotation from Section 604 of the Administrative Code:

"After the approval of any such estimate, it shall be unlawful for the department, board, or commission to expend any appropriation or part thereof, except in accordance with such estimate, unless the same be revised with the approval of the Governor.

If any department, board, or commission to which this section applies, shall fail or refuse to submit to the Governor estimates of expenditures, in accordance with the Governor's request, the Governor may notify the Auditor General, in writing, of such failure or refusal and, after receipt of such notice, the Auditor General shall not draw any warrant in favor of such department, board, or commission, until the Governor shall have notified the Auditor General, in writing, that the delinquent department, board, or commission has furnished him with, and he has approved, the estimate as required by this section."

The budgets are not unchangeable but remain in force until a revised budget has been approved. They may be revised as often and as frequently as necessary, subject always to the scrutiny of the Budget Secretary and approval of the Governor. After the approval of a revised budget, it takes the place of the one previously in force. This policy of revision would seem contrary to the popular concept in which a budget is regarded as an iron-clad limit of expenditures for a fixed time. Experience has proven that it is impossible to estimate accurately the expenditure needs under each item of the classification for a period extending ahead two years, one year or even six months. Our State government is dynamic. Emergencies arise or conditions change in some part of the State every day. After an appropriation has been granted, it is not good governmental policy nor is the object of the Budget System to "save" it, using the term in its most restrictive sense, but to expend it carefully, opportunistically, in accord with the direction of the General Assembly as set forth in the Acts of Assembly, and for the greatest public good. Under this conception, all budgets are alterable and may be revised, subject to the approval of the Governor.

Weneverdreamed Flaxolyn could do us so much good!

wonderful letter*

Gentlemen:—I cannot help writing you and telling you of the wonderful experience I have had with your Flaxolyn and what it has done for my wife, my friends and myself.

For years Mrs. Pullman and I have suffered from occasional constipation, and as a natural result, neither of us ever had much of an appetite, sleep was poorer than it should have been and we had a tired feeling all the time. I cannot tell you how much money we paid out for medicines, with but little results.

Last year I heard about your Flaxolyn, tried it, and found it worked wonderful. We never dreamed Flaxolyn could do so much good.

Mrs. Pullman sometimes had no movement for from three to five days, but after using the first bottle has been greatly relieved and after using Flaxolyn for three months feels like a different person, and the same thing applies to me.

Our friends began to wonder why we looked and felt so well and we told of our experience and the wonderful results with Flaxolyn and many of them took our advice and started to take Flaxolyn also, with the same results.

Very truly yours,
John O. Pullman
NOTARY PUBLIC OF NEW JERSEY

Tear out this Coupon. Take it to your druggist. If Flaxolyn does not bring you a satisfactory improvement by the fifth pleasant spoonful, return the partly-used bottle and get your money back! This certainly is an honest offer that shows the great confidence we have in Flaxolyn.

Phila. Professional Politicians Out to Grab State's Funds for Own Use, Says Sen. Grundy

present situation is the desperate expedient by which the Philadelphia outfit is making its last stand to obtain its long-coveted end. I have had a fairly intimate contact with the affairs of the Republican Party in Pennsylvania for some twenty or twenty-five years, and, as you know, I was a follower of the leadership of United States Senator Penrose up to the time of his death. I can say without qualification that throughout the later years of Penrose's life, the greatest single problem and handicap with which he had to contend within the Republican Party and the State of Pennsylvania, was the conscienceless and avaricious Vane Organization, which upon more than one occasion he publicly denounced as dishonest and corrupt, and equally a menace to the Republican Party and the State.

The leaders of that Organization made their bid for State control in the Primary of 1922—and failed. They made a more strenuous effort toward the same end in the Primary of 1926—and again failed. As the Primary of 1930 neared, they were in desperate straits for new fields of exploitation.

For nearly two decades the Vane Organization has had a stranglehold upon the City of Philadelphia. It has milked that city dry and has mortgaged it to the verge of municipal bankruptcy. You will recall having read in the newspapers of a few months ago that political corruption and general mismanagement had brought the City of Chicago to a financial crisis in which it was, for a time, unable to borrow sufficient money to meet its monthly payroll. But I would remind you that Chicago, with a million more population than Philadelphia, has a bonded indebtedness of only $240,000,000. Upon the City of Philadelphia there has been loaded a bonded indebtedness of $659,000,000 which the Federal Government states is greater per capita than exists anywhere else in the United States; and even the Organization leaders now admit that for 1930 there must be a large increase in the tax rate—an increase which the city's fiscal officer, the Controller, says will be not less than 25% of the existing rate for city purposes.

Obviously there must be new fields to conquer, if politics were to be kept upon the same profitable scale by which some of those Philadelphia leaders have become reputed multi-millionaires while holding $5,000 public offices. And so, some months before the late Primary, with Vane himself somewhat out of the picture because of ill-health, and the Organization's affairs nominally in the hands of Charles B. Hall, the Organization's loudest loud-speaker, Hall boldly announced their 1930 plans, and with equal bluntness expounded the purposes thereof.

With a fine and characteristic disregard of public opinion, he declared that "the State is drunk with money," and that therefore he, Sam Salus, Tom Cunningham and their colleagues would have a Philadelphia Organization candidate of their own in the Primary, the purpose of that candidacy being to control the Government of Pennsylvania and thereby divert a much larger share of the State's money to projects controlled by Hall, Salus, Cunningham, et al.

With that candidate and upon that issue they entered the Republican Primary. The alternative which Hall had placed before the Republican electorate was clear-cut. He had said to the people of Pennsylvania practically in plain words that the success of the Philadelphia Organization's program meant one of two things—that either State taxes must be substantially increased, or the citizens of every other part of the State must suffer curtailed appropriations for their roads, schools, hospitals, etc.

Their candidate was defeated. But they were determined to have the Governorship by any means and at any cost. Their next move was to have their candidate appeal to the State Supreme Court to override the expressed will of the Republican voters of Pennsylvania. They asked the Supreme Court to disfranchise practically the entire electorate of Luzerne County, and thus give to the Vane-Hall candidate, by a court order, the nomination which the Republican voters of this State had denied him. And Hall had the effrontery to publicly announce that undoubtedly the Supreme Court would do as he and his candidate asked.

Again, however, Mr. Hall was wrong. The Supreme Court confirmed the Republican nomination of Gifford Pinchot, and thus removed all element of doubt as to the makeup of the Republican ticket.

Having failed twice in their efforts to get control of the Government of Pennsylvania through a Republican candidate for Governor chosen by themselves, and realizing that there was no hope of obtaining that objective through the regular Republican ticket as nominated in the Primary, Mr. Hall and his colleagues turned to the deal which has carried them out of the Republican Party in this gubernatorial contest. They have made their alliance with John M. Hemphill, and right here I want to say that while Hall often does some mighty ridiculous things, he is, to the best of his ability and according to his lights, always for Charles B. Hall. You can accept it as a certainty, therefore, that Hall isn't for Hemphill without knowing that Hemphill is for Hall; and any voter who is attempting to convince himself to the contrary is just trying to pull the wool over his own eyes.

In their first attempted explanation of their bolt from the Republican Party, Hall and his associates tried to tell the public that they were supporting Hemphill because he was "wet" and they had found the sentiment of their districts to be "wet." But then they were unable to explain why, if their constituencies were "wet," they were supporting a "wet" candidate for Governor—who can do nothing at all toward the modification or repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment—and at the same time were supporting "dry" candidates for the United States Senate and the lower house of Congress, which are the only places where the prohibition situation can be changed.

So they began to soft-pedal on that obvious inconsistency and turned to another, equally ridiculous. They said they were against the head of the Republican ticket because he had run as an independent candidate for the United States Senate away back in 1914. But again the chickens came home to roost. They have been utterly unable to explain why they never thought of that in 1922, or even in the Primary of 1930. Also, it finally dawned upon them that this was not a very convincing explanation to be offered by bolters.

Hence they are not explaining any more, and the situation stands in its real light, just as it was revealed to the people of Pennsylvania by Charles B. Hall last spring.

In their determination to control and exploit this Commonwealth, Hall and his associates are trying to destroy the Republican Party in this State. The main chance is all that counts with them. But to the people of Pennsylvania the situation is potent with more than wholesale exploitation, increased taxes and curtailed appropriations for their good roads, hospitals, schools, health and welfare work, etc. It means that Hall and his associates, merely to serve their own selfish aims, are doing their utmost to defeat the Republican Party in the nation in 1932. And if the people of this great industrial State do not want to give impetus to any such disaster as that, certainly every consideration of self-interest demands that they see to it now that this whole infamous movement is sent down to a crushing defeat by the overwhelming election of the entire Republican ticket.

This is not a "wet" and "dry" fight, because it centers wholly upon the Governorship and a Governor can do nothing whatever to alter prohibition. It is not, in actual fact, a Republican and Democratic fight, because everyone knows that the Democratic candidate was not even a serious contender for the Governorship until he became thoroughly satisfactory to the Philadelphia Organization.

It is a fight to determine whether the people of Pennsylvania or the professional politicians of Philadelphia shall control this Commonwealth—and that is the entire issue in this contest.

BRISTOL SCORES WIN OVER AMBLER AT HOCKEY

By Leon Schiffer

Bristol High won its first game of the hockey season by defeating Ambler to the score of 1-0 after a close and hard-fought battle yesterday.

Although the Ambler twelve was composed entirely of veterans, the Cardinal and Gray spirit, combined with the team's fine defensive work and brilliant passing, was too great a match for them.

Early in the first half, with the ball in Bristol's own territory, "Mim" Rhode received the sphere from Olive Whyatt, and with a clear field looming in front of her, dribbled the ball 40 yards for Bristol's first and last tally. The remainder of the half was a "battle royal" between the two rival schools, with "Josie" DiLissio and the Still sisters holding the enemy in check.

Although neither team scored, the second half was a repetition of the first. During this period, Bristol and Ambler's defense started to function in perfect order. At this stage of the game, Cassel of Ambler and Nills of Bristol continually kept the ball moving back and forth across the field while the rest of the team contributed their aid.

The team's co-operation as a whole, which was supposed to be hampered by the absence of "Dot" Santo, due to the senior's trip to Washington, proved to be no handicap as "Lou" DeCamps capably filled her position and is now determined to gain a 'varsity berth.

Much credit must also be given to the fine playing of "Kitsy" Rhode, Adela Dowgwilo, and Enid Whyatt, who prevented the visitors from scoring many a goal.

EMPLOYEES ATTEND A "CONTACT" SESSION

Over 500 from Phila. Electric Co. at District Officers' Meeting

PUBLIC RELATIONS

More than five hundred employees of Philadelphia Electric Company attended the opening session of a course in Better Public Contact Tuesday evening in eight district offices of the company in metropolitan and suburban Philadelphia which has been inaugurated by the company to promote better contacts between the employees and the public. Sessions will be held twice a month on alternating Monday evenings until the end of May, 1931. While the relations between the company and its many thousand customers are satisfactory every effort will be made to make them as nearly perfect as it is humanly possible.

NOTICE

Notice is given from the sheriff's office, Doylestown, that the place of election for the electors of the First Precinct, First Ward of Bristol Borough, on Tuesday, November 4th, will be the office building adjoining the Bristol Trust Company, formerly Kraft's, in said precinct. It was previously announced the place of election for that precinct would be No. 1 Fire Company station.

The opening classes are being attended by groups of employees who come into almost daily contact with the public, salesmen, home service representatives, collectors, contract men, etc. Later meter readers, service men and others who have customer dealings will be included so that eventually practically every one of the eight thousand employees will be thoroughly instructed in customer contacts.

In approving the course, William H. Taylor, president of Philadelphia Electric Company, said: "The good will of customers is indispensable to the successful operation of our business and Company policies are largely interpreted by the manner in which employees function as representatives. Any plan which will further develop the ability of employees to maintain and improve the present harmonious relations with customers will be looked upon with favor."

The purpose of the course is to increase the knowledge of the employee with respect to the function of a public utility in a community, the specialized service rendered customers, the general organizations of the company for the furtherance of service and its operating policies and standards of business ethics by presenting specific procedures for the maintenance of satisfactory public relations and by assisting employees to understand their duties and responsibilities to the public and to appreciate the opportunities for individual advancement and company progress through the establishment of satisfactory public relations.

Last night's meeting was devoted to a discussion of The Public Utility's place in the Community—the scope and character of Philadelphia Electric Company's Service. Following its presentation there was a discussion by the employees forming the various groups. Excerpts from the opening paper follow:

"The purpose of the training program, of which this is the first paper, is to promote better public contacts on the part of Philadelphia Electric Company employees. The object of the first lesson in this course is to acquaint employees with the function of the public utility in a community, and to present a few facts showing the general organization of Philadelphia Electric Company to serve this function."

"The capital investment of Philadelphia Electric Company is a guarantee of service on the part of our organization. Over $392,000,000 has been invested in plant, equipment and construction work in progress in Philadelphia Electric Company. This capital investment makes service possible, but it is the management and employees of Philadelphia Electric Company who provide the motivating force behind this service. They are the ultimate agencies through whom the enormous community service of this capital investment comes to fruition."

"Every executive and every employee in our organization has a dual function to perform—to improve the service whenever and wherever possible; to effect such economies as will tend to reduce costs to the customer. We are in a measure administrators of a public trust. We are obliged not only legally but by our sense of duty to pass on to the customer the tangible results of good management. Our efforts in this direction are reflected in rate revisions in 1929 and 1930 effecting substantial reductions in charges to the Philadelphia Electric Company's customers—the total estimated savings for the two years being approximately $4,000,000."

"The management is determined to make our service as satisfactory as is humanly possible and has dedicated itself to the proposition that the public confidence and this trust which we enjoy has not been misplaced—that the people of our community shall be rewarded by an unremitting effort on our part to give them service unsurpassed anywhere.

"The employee represents an essential unit in providing such service and, in addition, in making clear to individual customers the services rendered by Philadelphia Electric Company, and its place in the Community."

"Our attitude and our conduct as employees should reflect adequately the efforts made by the management. We should show, by our conduct, the very real effort that is being made to render an abundant measure of service. We can do this in the following ways:

"We must be alert and prompt to satisfy the customer's wishes. We must never promise that which we do not intend strictly to perform, and we must be prompt to carry out that which we have promised. We must be uniformly courteous. Our customers have a right to demand from our employees this quality in its strictest interpretation. We must be thoroughly informed and scrupulously accurate in all our work, especially in keeping records. Errors irritate customers and breed disputes. We must not only be thoroughly informed on the details of our own job, but we must have a good working knowledge of correlated work, and an intelligent understanding of the duties and processes of the company in general. We must treat each customer as an individual case and not as one of a class. The same inquiry or complaint may come before the utility employees hundreds or even thousands of times, but each customer's inquiry or complaint must be handled as an individual problem, and given the same considerations as though it were the first of its kind."

This department is very willing to do, and even if there has been an inspection of the premises and the occupant desires to have the chimney inspected and request is made, a representative will be sent immediately.
